FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Comment Period Extended for Bi-State Distinct Population Segment of Greater Sage-Grouse

Allows more time to for public to review and comment on proposed rules

RENO, Nev. – The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service today announced the extension of the public comment period for 45 days on the proposal to protect the Bi-State Distinct Population Segment (DPS) of greater sage-grouse along the California-Nevada border as a threatened species under the Endangered Species Act (ESA). The proposal includes a special rule that would provide increased flexibility for land management practices that are intended to benefit the sage-grouse. The extension will also add 45 days to the comment period on a proposal to designate approximately 1.86 acres of critical habitat for the species.

“We are hoping to provide the public with an adequate opportunity to review and submit comments on the proposals by extending the end of public comment period from December 2013 to February 2014,” said Ted Koch, State Supervisor for the Nevada Fish and Wildlife Office. “This process is important so that any final decision made by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reflects all of the best information available.”

Scientific information regarding these proposals will now be accepted until February 10, 2014, and may be submitted by one of the following methods:
